

Virtual Receptionist

There is now a bewildering array of technology designed to keep you connected at all times. And yet, the experts still haven't invented the ability for you to be in two places at once, doing fifteen different jobs simultaneously.

Even with today's flexible work ethic, there will be times when you're just not available to take that call. And that's when that important new client will pick up the phone. You need someone back at base holding the fort; a calm, clear, collected human connection in a fast moving world with the right information at the tips of their fingers.

DJR Marketing's Virtual Receptionist / Telephone Answering Service will answer your telephone calls for you, stating your company name and details, wherever you are located. We'll take messages and pass them on to you or any named member of your staff immediately. If you're expecting the call, we'll relay your message to your caller. All calls will be logged so that you have a complete record of everyone who has contacted you and their message/details.

With DJR Marketing's affordable telephone answering service, you need never miss a call again.
